

HARDING OUTPLAYS SHELBY TO WIN 14-0

WHIPPETS NO MATCH FOR FAST MOVING PRESIDENT LINEUP

Bohyer Team Flashes Best Offense of Year; Bush Scores Twice.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

Perhaps the best of the world after all, other than to have a "what it takes" to have a good time. This is the only son of the Harding family following their 14-0 victory Saturday over the Shelby Whippets.

After seven starts without a victory Harding invited the fathers of the players to attend a game as the guests of the team. The very picture of the parents seemed to inspire the players. They crashed the line as never before this season. They tackled as though they had a reason for doing it. In fact they did a lot of things which had been started earlier in the year would not have allowed Harding to finish the season in fifth position of a six team circuit.

Smith kicked off to Shelby to start the game Saturday and Harding promptly took the ball away from the Whippets by holding them for downs. Dick Morgan then threw a bomb shell into the Shelby stands by racing through tackle for 80 yards and a touchdown but the effort was nullified as the play was offside. It only heralded future happenings for Bob Bush grabbed the oval and ripped off another 45-yard dash through the same side of the line.

Shelby Tightens
Following these two excursions Shelby's defense tightened for the remainder of the quarter and although the Harding team battered away at the line most of the time it was unable to get very close to the goal line. They play for the entire period was in Shelby territory. Penalties marred the game, frequent violations being charged to both teams.

Harding made the first scoring effort in the second period. After Shelby had broken up a threat at the goal by stopping three line bucks Bush dropped back and attempted to boot a goal from the field. The try was not close to being successful and Shelby took the ball on its own 20. Swanger completed a series of bucks for the initial first down of the game for Shelby but his efforts were unavailing as Harding forced them to kick. Don Lindsay made a spectacular one handed catch of a pass from Bush during the period but did not come close to scoring. Harding outplayed Shelby during the first half but a stubborn defense would not allow the locals to score.

Harding started the second half with a vicious assault at the Shelby line with Bush and Hunt doing most of the ball tugging.

With the ball on Shelby's 20,

Harding and Kelly combined to put the offense into a groove. The play was a yard penalty for the hard on the line and Bush carried it across after one back failed to kick goal from placement to put Harding in the lead for the first time this year.

The period ended without further scoring. Harding carried the play to Shelby in an effort to score another touchdown but could get no further than the Shelby 40 as the quarter ended.

Field Goal Short

Harding tried another goal from the field in the fourth period but it was short. The President's patterned the Shelby line for some good gains but Shelby's defense was stubborn and broke up several attempts for touchdowns. Sloan grabbed a Shelby pass out of the air and put the ball on the Shelby eight from where two plays put it over for the second score.

Harding started a defense game following the second score but when Pickert intercepted one of Shelby's many wild aerials, then directed another charge at the Whippet's goal line but 15 yards penalty cut it short. Bohyer sent in the second stringers for Harding to complete the contest. Shelby threw a flock of wild passes late in the game but never threatened seriously.

TO CELEBRATE

Wildcat School Forgets Classes to Join in Celebration.

By The Associated Press
EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 17.—Complacent old Evanston went college today in celebration of Northwestern's achievement of at least a joint ownership with Michigan of the Big Ten football title.

All afternoon classes were called off by special order and a student pep session was scheduled for 1 p. m. to be followed by an all university dance.

Tonight Evanston will join the university in cheering Captain "Hard Luck" Hank Brader and his mates. Several theatres will hold open house.

Commercialism Subject of Convention Fight

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Commercialism in amateur sport and the question of how far to go in curbing it stood out today as the principal issue before the first general session of the forty-second annual convention of the National Amateur Athletic union.

Already beaten in committee on one of his proposals calculated to enforce strict amateurism, President Avery Brundage of Chicago prepared to carry the fight to the floor of the convention.

TAKES BIG LEAD

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Leo Macaluso's field day against Syracuse emboldened the Colgate fullback to take a wide lead in the race for national individual football scoring honors. Macaluso scored 29 points on Saturday to boost his season total to 135.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

A FEW starters gleaned from the Harding Shelby battle Saturday, and it was better than any other game. Harding defeated the Whippets. There was no doubt that Harding outplayed the Whippets. They probably are some doubt as to how badly they outplayed them. These figures may help to give some idea as to why Harding scored 14 points to 0 for the loss. It's a wonder they didn't score more.

Harding scored 11 first downs to two for the loss. Harding attempted nine forward passes, completed four, five were incomplete and none were intercepted.

Shelby flipped 12 aerials, completed one, had three intercepted and the rest were incomplete. And here is the sad part for Shelby. Harding amassed a huge total of 233 yards from scrimmage formations. Shelby was able to pick up but a scant 40 through Harding's line.

Harding lost a total of 70 yards through 10 penalties and Shelby dropped 50 through eight violations. On eight points Bush averaged 30.2 yards. On eight kicks Shelby averaged 30.2 yards. To Miller of Shelby though goes the honor of kicking the longest single kick of the game. He sent one beautiful spiral on a 69 yard ride over the head of Bush, playing safety for Harding.

The 80 yard dash turned in by Dick Morgan to start the Harding offense in the first period was the longest made by any Harding player this season. And incidentally one of the best. Dick is not the fastest man in a football suit but he used his brains in sidestepping and eluding a flock of tacklers to get to the goal. It was a bit of tough luck that the play was offside and the ball called back. To the right side of the Harding forward wall goes the credit for launching the dash. There was a hole big enough to drive a wagon through when Morgan started his run.

Before being taken off the field as a result of a severe bump on Morgan was the outstanding man in the backfield although the remaining members of the quartet played a lot of heads up football and deserve much credit.

The line play of Hardings was good. It would be nothing short of unfair to single out a man and name him as the star of the line. Eckenberger got through more often Saturday than he has at any time this season. Jeans was going good until he was injured and forced to leave the game but the team did not suffer following Houseworth's entry to fill the post left vacant by Jeans.

It was obvious Saturday that Harding had the better team on the field. Whether or not it has been better all season might be open to argument but for the day at least there was little comparison. Despite this fact, however, some good things can be said for Shelby, particularly about one Mr. Swanger, cowering at fullback for the Whippets. With even mediocre support he would give any opposing team an afternoon of interesting opposition. He is shifty, fast and picks his holes nicely. He didn't have a chance to do anything Saturday for the Harding forwards smothered nearly every attempt to get away by breaking through the line. It wouldn't be surprising to see him poll several votes for the all-league fullback post.

Rockne Worrying Over Game with Northwestern

By The Associated Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17.—We're over Notre Dame's impending battle with Northwestern at Evanston Saturday, already is beginning to break out on the brow of Knute Rockne. The Notre Dame coach saw the Wildcats in action against Wisconsin Saturday, and the result caused him to fret.

Northwestern has a strong, fine team, he said, and our players were badly battered in the game with Drake.

Not only the Wildcats are providing a lot of worry for Rockne, as he also is looking ahead to the games with Army and Southern California.

11 Teams Remain in Unbeaten, Untied List

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Only 11 of the nation's top 100 college football teams could claim records unmarred neither by defeat nor tie.

Of the 15 teams on the list last week, 11 remain unbeaten and untied. The unbeaten and undefeated teams are:

Oakland, Cal.; St. Olaf, Minn.; St. Paul, Minn.; St. Mary's, Cal.; St. Mary's, N. D.; St. Mary's, N. D.; St. Mary's, N. D.; St. Mary's, N. D.; St. Mary's, N. D.; St. Mary's, N. D.

Buckeyes Out To Settle Old Scores With Illini

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17.—Eager to settle old scores Ohio State vanquished football team sweeps on the high tide of victory toward Illinois this week.

Not since 1926 have the Buckeyes won from their annual rivals in the last game of the season. During the last three games they have

BUCYRUS IS WINNER OVER ORANGEMEN 7-6

Talbot Passes to La Pointe To Score for Redmen; Kicks Point.

The hopes of Galion for its first N. C. O. championship suffered a severe jolt Saturday when the Bucyrus Redmen came from behind in the closing minutes of the game on Long field and defeated the Orangemen 7-6.

Galion outplayed the Redmen throughout the entire game although Bucyrus ran up more first downs than the Orangemen. Smith, Galion fullback, was a terror on offense during the game, ripping the Bucyrus line to shreds with his vicious slashes at the forward wall. He scored the only touchdown for the Orangemen in the third quarter when he raced around the end for 20 yards. The try for point failed and with it probably faded Galion's N. C. O. title.

While Galion was taking it on the chin from Bucyrus, Mansfield was upsetting the dope to defeat the strong Toledo Woodward team 14-7. The Tigers led by 14 points until the final period when the Toledo boys showed over their only score and then made good on the try for extra point.

Galion still has a mathematical chance to win the N. C. O. bunting. Ashland plays Mansfield on Thanksgiving and should the Starnmen defeat the Tigers, Galion will be the champion. Galion has completed its schedule.

Games this week call for Ashland to meet Mt. Gilboa at Ashland on Friday and Bucyrus to play Shelby at Shelby.

BISHOP-BOBCAT FRAY WILL DECIDE TITLE

B. A. A. Championship Struggle Is Outstanding Ohio College Game.

BY LATHROP MACK
Associated Press Sports Writer.
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17.—One of the most exciting college football games in the history of the Buckeye conference stands out like a gem in the list of this week's featured games.

Only 11 are scheduled for Saturday, and many teams, looking for their first victory, are vying for a place in the championship. The game between Bishop and Dayton is expected to be a close one. The game between Bishop and Dayton is expected to be a close one.

Ohio and Wisconsin are leading the Buckeye conference each with victories over Miami and Dayton and one each. Their game decides the championship. The game between Bishop and Dayton is expected to be a close one.

Not even scored. Only once since 1922 have they defeated the Illini while the last time Ohio won in an odd-numbered year, when the games are played here was in 1917. However, it seems that the old legend of this rivalry, that the home team always loses will be renewed next Saturday at Champaign.

YALE-HARVARD GAME TOPS EASTERN CARD

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The forty-ninth clash between Yale and Harvard towers over the eastern football slate for next Saturday.

Whatever the weather, more than 70,000 persons will be in the Yale bowl. Yale, beaten only by Georgia, should be a strong favorite but past performances are tossed aside in all calculations involving a Yale Harvard duel. Just as Princeton, buffeted around all season, played magnificently last Saturday to hold Yale to a 16-0 score, so Harvard can be depended upon to give Yale all the opposition it can handle.

Aside from its defeat by Georgia, Yale has revealed great power and defensive strength this season in beating Dartmouth and the Army to ties, and in beating Maryland, Brown and Princeton among others. Harvard, on the other hand, has run into a series of injuries that have wrecked what looked to be a formidable machine at the start of the season.

Many of the section's major eleven will rest on Saturday and swing into action again on Thanksgiving day. Army, looking ahead to the Notre Dame game Nov. 29, will meet Ursinus next Saturday.

Navy plays Maryland at Annapolis, and New York university clashes with Rutgers in New York. Fordham is winning streak shattered by St. Mary's taken on Bucknell, while at Easton, Pa. one of the most ancient of all football rivalries that between Lafayette and Lehigh, will be renewed. Villanova meets Georgetown and West Virginia clashes with Washington & Jefferson.

Wesley Fesler three passes to Low Hinchman accounted for the first touchdown against Pitt and his throw to Bob Grady gained 35 yards to the three-yard line and paved the way for the second. His punting kept Pitt constantly in the hole while the Ohio line outplayed Pitt's wall and allowed the Buckeye backs to match Pittsburgh's plungers in yards gained.

The team played itself out during the first three quarters, piling up a 16-0 lead, and then staved off a last-minute attack by Pitt on the three-yard line where Pitt made a first down. Three line-plays gained but one yard and Bob Horn knocked down a pass on the goal line to save the occasion. Fesler, like a smart quarterback, hugged the ball on three plays into the line as the game ended.

Those three well-played games will leave Illinois hardly a chance unless the Buckeyes grow overconfident.

THROUGH WAVES AS BOYS LEAVE

Marion County Future Farmers' Band Off for Kansas City Meeting.

Several hundred parents and friends waved goodbye to the Marion County Future Farmers of America band when they boarded the train at Union station yesterday morning heading west for Kansas City, Mo., and the national F. F. A. convention.

It was hard on some of the boys to swing on the train with the proper abandonment and good cheer because many of the young men were leaving home for the first time. And Kansas City, Mo., sounded like it was the end of the world Sunday morning.

There was too much excitement and trouble with baggage for the boys to give a farewell concert, but probably they couldn't have, and way there were so many lumps in so many throats.

The vocational agriculture teachers did their best to cheer them up and succeeded in several cases. The parents born up under the party indignity, but there were several of the fathers who wished their sons to, when they saw what it meant to let their boys go and wished what a good time was in store in Kansas City.

Pictures were taken, a last warning about eating too much candy given by mothers, a firm grip was taken on a traveling bag, lunch boxes were given a loving pat and the band was off, waving goodbye from the windows as far as the eye could follow the train.

Pass Your Dollar Along!

THIS matter of spending is a "round robin" in which the dollar or its equivalent in wages, profit, value or gratified desire returns to the original spender. But when one of us breaks the chain by keeping the dollar in his pocket and refuses to pass it along it only influences others to do the same thing and it leaves the next in line totally without means to continue the chain.

"Keeping money in circulation" implies just what it says...the circulating of money. When you buy, the merchant requires more goods to replace what you have taken away. He draws on the manufacturer; the manufacturer increases production and employs more labor; as the laborer earns more, he buys more of clothes, food, furniture, amusement

...the commodities which you sell or produce and hence the dollar you spend comes back to you.

We've started on the up-grade to a resumption of Prosperity now. A noted economist said in convention in Chicago the other day, "Americans today are consuming more goods than are being made up for replacement at present.." This is the fore-runner of increased production and increased employment.

Continue spending and the wheels of commerce and industry will soon be humming in the key of prosperity but it's the degree in which you circulate your dollars that will determine the tempo of our return to normalcy.

This is the second of a series of four advertisements, inserted by the business and civic organizations of Marion, in support of the national "Buy Now" campaign. Special buying inducements in every Marion store from November 15th to November 25th. Prevailing Prices are the Lowest in Years.

CHAPTER 1
Bob Loses Control

The entry of the United States into the war made two changes in Fanny's life. First, Bob Daniels went back into the army and eventually to France. And Amelia, David's sister visiting in Washington, met a newspaper man named Clark Smith, fell passionately in love and when he was ordered abroad as a war correspondent, married him at a week's notice and went with him as far as London.

In May, 1918, Bob, now a colonel of artillery, came back to Cloughbarre on a three days' furlough. On the last morning of his leave he walked in on Fanny when she was in the kitchen making cookies—plain ones for Sheila, spiced ones for David.

"My, but it smells good in here," said Bob, seating himself and turning back his chair. "What are you cooking—ambrosia?"

"I don't know just what," laughed Fanny. "Mother, Fanny, cook, Leona, gave me the recipe and Leona cooks entirely by ear—a pinch of this and a little of that—Fanny was in a buff gingham and a white apron. Her sleeves were rolled up above the elbow showing the milky skin of her beautiful arms. A tiny head of moisture stood on her perfect upper lip. Little golden curls escaped from the vibrant mass of hair loosely coiled on her head. Bob's eyes brooded on her as they would never have on any other girl.

"I want to marry the picture of you with me to France just as you are now—into eternity. If the bullet with my name on it finds me, Bob's voice was husky.

"Oh, Bob, you're going to France?"

"Any day now, perhaps next week."

The quick tears sprang to Fanny's eyes. She brushed them away with the back of her arm, leaving a smudge of flour on the tip of her nose and bent low over the dough she was rolling out.

Sheila, playing nearby, came and tugged at Fanny's skirt. When Fanny stooped down, Sheila wiped the flour off her mother's nose with her own small handkerchief.

"All duty," Sheila explained. "Thank you, darling. You take such good care of Mother. Now I think some of the cookies are for Cousin Bob. Then you must have your milk and go to bed."

"Those tears probably don't mean much. I've seen you cry if Sheila scratched her finger or David drowned the kittens," said Bob. When Fanny returned from putting Sheila to bed, that night, she found the door of her mother's room ajar. She saw the only tears she expected to have shed for her.

"Bob, how unkind! You know the Brownbecks—that it's born in them to feel ashamed of showing emotion. Just the same, Leila is probably crying her eyes out this minute."

"Leila is at the dentist's. She apologized for leaving me my last morning, but Robert's tooth needs filling and she felt she must go along."

"You tell Robert to come and see me this afternoon—that I'll have something for him," Fanny said, busily cutting out a cookie man.

"Fanny, if I shouldn't come back I wish you'd remind the kids occasionally that they had a father who was once champion fencer at West Point. That I believe, is my only claim to distinction—try not to forget it."

"When the war is over I suppose the men who come back will soon be just like anybody else; but those who stay will be heroes forever—especially to their children," said Fanny unsteadily.

"Then I hope to God I stay," Bob said, looking at the clock, got to his feet and pulled down his blouse. "Twelve o'clock and I haven't packed yet. My train goes at 3. By the way, it's a secret that I'm due to sail very soon. Not even Leila knows."

"Oh, Bob, that isn't kind."

"If I told Leila she would begin pulling wires to keep me on this side, as she has before—this time I'm not taking any chances."

"You're as unjust as you can be," Bob said. "Well, maybe I am." Bob picked up his cap, twisted it with nervous fingers. "Fanny, would you mind kissing me good-bye?"

Fanny hesitated. David would not like it. But how should she refuse so little a thing to this hurt, overgrown boy with the beseeching eyes—the boy whom she might never see again?

"Why, of course I will," she said as lightly as possible.

Bob kissed her reverently—then his arms suddenly tightened about her and Fanny had to hide her face from his hot lips. Disengaging herself with a little push she hastened to put the table between them.

"There are some things—which don't have to be put in words—" said Bob from the door.

"Better not put in words, Bob. You've been so kind—we've been such friends. Let's not spoil it."

"All right, I won't." The door banged behind him.

The very next day Amelia came over to tell Fanny and David that she was engaged to Clark Smith and meant to be married in a week. To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday when I got up and let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and when I went down and got out in the yard with the milk pail it was clear and cold, and smoke was going straight up out of all the chimneys as far as I could see, and my breath looked like smoke, but it didn't go very far before it done a fadeout. Jubilee was running around the yard as fast as he could make his legs move, warming up. And when I opened the door to the barn the cows breath looked like smoke, and the old cow turned her head and looked at me, and then mooed. A cow always straightened out her neck when she moos. A moo must be straight and can't come out of a crooked neck. Maybe that is why a crook-neck squish don't moo. That is a joke.

The bunch came into the barn before I got done milking, and Jubilee set a little ways off and opened up his face for me to send him a few squirts; and then Younis and Feeble and Maggie came, and we all looked at Maggie, and we all thought of her and the painners and looked away again. I bet she didn't climb out of my ant's window to go home when she tried on my ant's pajamers. I bet my ant threw her out.

When my ant washed me after breakfast she was singing, "Wash me and I will be whiter than snow." I was glad she wasn't singing "There'll be a hot time." My face would of been gone before she got half done.

We went around to the new house before Sunday School, but it is almost done and the doors were all locked, but the Lost Bag of Tripe clumb a ladder that was up to a upstairs window and went in and down stairs and opened the door and invited us in. The floors are all shiny and Banty's father has painted all the walls. We went out to the garage and it was full of buckets of paint and brushes and we all started to paint the inside of the garage, and the Lost Bag of Tripe hollered that a man was coming, and we clumb over each other getting out of the window into the alley. Nibs forgot he had a brush in his hand and tried to climb over Whitley, and he was a sight. He wears the best clothes I would of hated to got what he must of got when he went home.

Today was Monday, and Banty had got licked too. We didn't go near the new house. I am never going near it again. Mush wasn't working, and the principle told him the windows need washing and he was standing in the yard looking up when a sponge full of

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

Dicky and Father inspect the Christmas Decorations.

"I had the sudden impulse to go down into a cellar and see how many buckets down at the end of the day."

A Loving Warning

"If everything is right with you, Sweet," he asked, "why are you so nervous?"

I had the sudden impulse to go down into a cellar and see how many buckets down at the end of the day."

Christmas Eve, 1918. I was sitting in my room, looking at the Christmas decorations. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone.

Wonderfully all right, father, I answered slowly, and then changing the subject quickly, "Have you seen the basement playroom?"

"Yes," he responded quickly, and something in his manner told me he was glad to get away from me. "I was down there just a few minutes ago with Jim looking at the fire. I've had him keep it up for days. You know, so there would be no possibility of dampness."

"Yes, I know, you thoughtful dear," I said warmly, and catching his hands I drew him under the mistletoe of the chandelier. "Give me my first Christmas kiss, father. It belongs to you."

"Not to Richard?" he queried him, with the mental reservation that if Dicky had seized the opportunity which was his when he had first come into the room he and not my father would have had that first kiss.

I did not regret the exchange, however, when I saw the light in my father's eyes. I knew of course, that Junior and I are all he has in the world, and that to him I am infinitely dearer than anything else. From the moment when, after his long search as the "queen" of Broadway, he found me, and claimed me as his daughter, he never has left ungratified a wish of mine that he could discover and grant. Indeed I have to be careful about expressing a preference for anything because, at no matter what pains of expense, he will try to indulge it.

"My darling," he breathed as he kissed me and held me in a tight embrace. "Always make me happy. Always make me very, very happy. Sweetheart, for now you are a wife, and I am a father."

I had the sudden impulse to go down into a cellar and see how many buckets down at the end of the day."

Christmas Eve, 1918. I was sitting in my room, looking at the Christmas decorations. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone. I had just finished putting up the stockings. I was alone.

MEETING EVERY NEED

A business organization which does not meet the Public's requirements, has little or no excuse for existence. Forty-five percent of American families live in rental property, while the likes and requirements of many are different. The Public's wants demand a rental medium quickly accessible for use at all times and offering a variety in selection.

The Star's Classified Want-Ad section eminently qualifies as the rental medium of Marion. First, because agents and property owners through experience have found that it always brings them quick action and worth while tenants. On the other hand, the rental shopper, from experience, has learned that the best available offerings are always found in The Star's Classified Want-Ad Section.
